

Why SAKE?

Have you ever:

- considered the change as an important factor of your everyday activities?
- suffered significant delays in your business as the result of changing environment?
- noticed that the important information is skipping your attention?
- had a feeling that you are spending too much of your time searching for information?
- considered knowledge management as an area with influence on your organisation?
- spent too much time looking for appropriate resources, experts etc.?

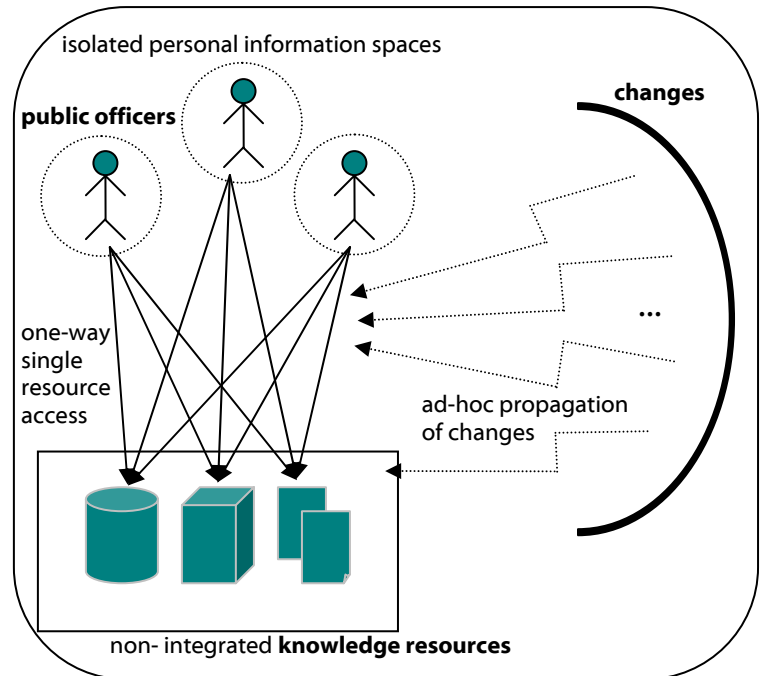

Figure 1. As-is situation

If yes, it means that you should take a look in the SAKE project...

SAKE project addresses the Public Administration environment. Change has become the key phrase to describe the conditions of work of the European governments of all levels, especially in the New Member States.

The SAKE project considers that the eGovernment systems are change-sensitive and therefore there is a particular need to deal with the evolving environment in systematic method.

More information on the present situation of European public bodies and the exploration of possibilities of improving their operational activities can be found at

<http://www.sake-project.org>